

1944 - 1952

Farms & Business

1952 - North Unit Main Canal at Mile 55, showing stand of Crested wheat and Brome grass seeded on canal banks to prevent weed infestations.

1951 - This weed sprayer was constructed by the O & M personnel in the Madras Shop. The spray booms are readily raised and lowered by the truck driver as variations in contour require. The driver also has complete control of the spray solution to the various sections of the spray boom while the truck is in motion.

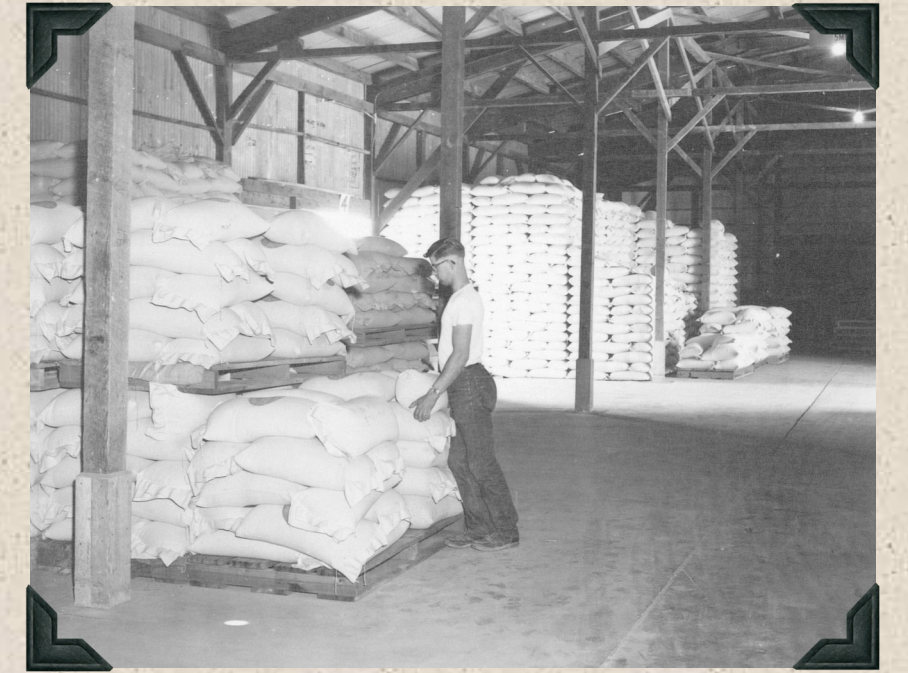

1944 - Madras, Oregon located in the heart of the North Unit project lands. Deschutes Project, Oregon.

1949 - Industrial development. New elevator and seed warehouse, Madras, Oregon.

1951 - One of several clover screening tables in operation at the Pacific Supply Cooperative. Madras, Oregon.

1951 - Certified Ladino clover seed in warehouse of the Pacific Supply Cooperative in Madras, Oregon.

1951 - A field of Ladino clover in bloom on the Ralph Bollenbaugh farm. Madras, Oregon.

1951 - A 25 acre field of Alsike clover in bloom on the George Rodman farm. Culver, Oregon.

1951 - Loading alfalfa hay at the Roy Buck farm near Culver, Oregon.

1951 - Cutting and baling alfalfa hay on the Spencer farm near Madras, Oregon.

1952 - Seed processing company in Culver, Oregon. The seed business, a major income for the project, is reflected by large investments of seed companies in Culver and Madras.

1952 - Wholesale and commercial plants located in Madras, Oregon on the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

1952 - New bank building in Madras, Oregon, definitely indicating the growing trend of this project center trading area.

1952 - New truck warehouse in Madras, Oregon. This company operates throughout Oregon giving pickup and delivery service at the Project farmers door to Portland and other distant markets.